

VIVID PICTURE OF CRUCIFIXION

Was the Thrilling Climax to Evangelist Willis Sermon
Last Night

PREACHED ON FAITH

Compared Recent Commercial
Depression to the Spiritual Depression when we Lack Faith

Evangelist Willis preached to a good sized congregation last night and delivered a most forcible sermon.

The speaker said that there seemed to have been going over the country in the past few months a commercial depression. "What was the matter with the stores?" he asked. "With the harvest? With the people?—Lack of faith? There was money enough, goods enough, skill and brains enough, but no faith.

"Now, what damages the commercial world, damages the spiritual. Our great lack of faith. That is the hinge on which eternity turns. The Bible says we are saved by faith. Oh, says someone in the audience, 'I have faith.' I believe that Christ came down to save the world. I reply that in worldly matters when you have faith you always act upon it. For instance, if I could show you a business proposition where you could make $50,000 you would immediately go into it. You would prove your faith in what I tell you by your prompt and immediate action. Now, if what you call faith in Christ has led you to surrender your entire nature to Jesus and to corresponding action in your life, it is genuine faith, and if it has not, it is not faith at all.

"There are some things which I believe with the head. There are other things which I believe with the heart. And then there are other things which I believe with the head and the heart.

"It is faith that makes a Christian, and it is the proportion of faith that makes the difference between Christians. What was it that lifted Paul, Luther, Murry, Knox, Wesley and others above the ordinary level of Christian character? It was the simplicity, the brilliancy, the power, and the splendor of their faith. Oh that we had more of it! God gives us more faith to preach and sing and more faith to hear. Lord! We believe, help thou our unbelief!

"A man said to whom are you talking? I am one of the most respectable men in this community; do you call me a sinner? Yes. The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked. You say, how do you know anything about my heart? I know that about it for God announces it in his words and what God says is always right. When a man becomes a Christian people say, That man sets himself above us. Oh no! Instead of setting himself up he throws himself down. He cries out: I was lost once, but now I am found. I was blind once, but now I see. I prostrate myself at the foot of the cross of the Savior's mercy.

SINGING EVANGELIST COLE HAS RETURNED

After a Successful Revival Service at Marietta, Ohio—Will Continue the Work

Homer Cole returned last night from Marietta, Ohio, where he has been engaged as a singing evangelist. He is meeting with pronounced success in this work and has received a number of flattering offers which means continued service in the field. Mrs. Cole accompanies her husband and is equally delighted with the work.

"You know there is a difference in stains, some can be washed out with water, but others require a chemical operation. The sin of the heart is so black and indelible a mark that no human application can cleanse it, while the blood of Jesus Christ can wash it out forever. O, the infinite, the omnipotent chemistry of the gospel!

"What bread is to the hungry, what harbor is to the bestormed, what light is to the blind, what liberty is to the captive, that, and more than that is Christ to the man who trusts in him.

"Second—Christ is precious to the believer as a friend.

"You have commercial friends and you have family friends. To the commercial friend you go when you have business troubles. But I want to tell you at this time of Jesus, the best business friend a man ever had. He can pull you out of the worst perplexities.

"But we have our family friends. They come in when we have sickness in the household. Perhaps they say nothing, but they sit down and weep as the light goes out from the bright eyes, and the white petals of the lily are scattered in the blast of death. They say Don't cry. Jesus pities you. All is well. You will meet your loved one again. But I have to tell you that Christ is the best family friend. Look over your family friends today and find another that can be compared with him.

"Lastly—Christ is precious to the believer as a final deliverer.

"You and I must after a while get out of this world. In every congregation death has for the last year been doing its work, a great deal of it. Where is your father? Where is your mother? Your child? Your brother? Your sister? Oh, how cruel does death seem to be! Will he pluck every flower? Can I keep nothing? Are there no charmed weapons with which I can go out and contend against him?

"The sepulchre is a lighted castle on the shores of heavenly seas, and sentinel angels walk up and down at the door to guard it. Oh, bless God for what Christ is to the Christian soul, here and hereafter!

"You may have all the crowns of heaven; I do not care so much about them. You may have all the sceptres of heaven. I do not care so much about them. But give me Jesus, that is enough for me. Oh, Jesus I long to see thee, Thou chief among ten thousand and the one altogether lovely."

The sermon closed with a thrilling word picture of the crucifixion.

The Harrison orchestra, composed of W. H. Harrison, Ralph Edgerton, Harry Lucas, Bert Kennedy and Paul Williams, played their first dance at the Thursday Evening club last night and nothing but words of praise has been heard of their work. It is claimed by judges of good dance music that the local orchestra is far better than many high priced orchestras brought to this city heretofore from the larger cities. Ralph Edgerton is manager of the organization.

Knightstown Banner: The Rush County Horse Thief Detective Association will hold its annual meeting for the purpose of electing officers and disposing of other matters of interest to the members, in this city at the G. A. R. hall, on Saturday afternoon March 7th.

In the platform of Rush County Democracy this year will be found a plank referring to the telephone company, another regarding the alleged high price of meat here and the "eeling process of justice," for no one is ever convicted by the Democratic prosecutor.

SAD NEWS WAS A GREAT SHOCK

Which Came Today Concerning Sudden Death of Sarah Gantner

DIED THIS MORNING

While at the Bedside of her Daughter in Birmingham Alabama

The many friends of Mrs. Sarah Gantner were shocked today noon when a message came from Birmingham, Alabama, that she had died suddenly this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Horatio Havens, shortly after arriving in that city.

Mrs. Gantner, accompanied by her sister, Miss Lottie Callaghan, left this city, Wednesday night, to go to Birmingham, where they were called by the illness of the former's daughter, Mrs. Horatio Havens.

They left Cincinnati yesterday morning, arriving at the home of her daughter in Birmingham about midnight. The message did not give the details, but stated that she died suddenly this morning.

Mrs. Gantner was afflicted with asthma and was not feeling very well when she started on her journey, but wanted to be with her daughter, who is threatened with appendicitis.

Deceased was the widow of the Nicholas Gantner, and is survived by two children, the daughter at whose home she died and John Gantner, Jr., of this city.

The remains will be brought to this city tomorrow and taken to her home in North Harrison street. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Friday Afternoon club was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Rich Reed in North Main street.

Miss Clara Wesling and Mr. August Wolf will be married at the Catholic church parsonage next Tuesday. Rev. W. J. Cronin will solemnize the wedding ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Matlock entertained Mr. and Mrs. Noah Matlock and family with a six o'clock four course dinner last Wednesday evening in honor of Noah Matlock's sixty-fourth birthday anniversary.

Miss Lelia Brecheisen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brecheisen and who is attending school at Battle Creek, Mich., will be the bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Marguerite McGrewer and Reuben Smith, of South Dakota, who are to be married at Marshall, Indiana, this evening.

One of the most pleasant social functions of the season was the Thursday Evening club dance given by John W. Young at the Modern Woodman hall last evening. While it was not intentional yet the dance proved to be a "skidoo" dance as there were just twenty-three couple on the floor. Excellent music was furnished by the new orchestra recently organized with H. W. Harrison, as leader.

Quite a number of friends of the family of Will Campbell, of Orange township, gathered at his home Thursday night and entertained them with some good music on violins, guitars and piano. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Benning, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reed, Misses Lottie Branson, Ursula Kemple, Marie and Mary Brown and Messrs. Roscoe Benning, Raymond and Bonnell Boring, Harry Kemple, Cecil Major, Floyd Branson and Jakey Alter.

THE WEATHER

Partly cloudy and threatening; weather tonight and Saturday. Slightly warmer tonight.

KENTUCKIANS MAY COME HERE

Extensive Exodus of Tobacco Farmers From 'Dark and Bloody Grounds'

CONDITION IS ALARMING

Representative of Tobacco Company here Trying to Interest Rush County Farmers

Owing to the depredations of the Night Riders in the Kentucky tobacco belt many growers of the weed are looking for new locations, and the prospects are that there will be an extensive exodus from the "dark and bloody ground" of the men who have made that State famous as a tobacco producing territory.

E. W. Hughes, a representative of the American Tobacco company was in Rushville today talking to real estate men for the purpose of interesting them in securing farms for these growers, and met with some success.

In a very interesting talk Mr. Hughes stated that the farmers of Rush county could engage in a more profitable business than the cultivation of tobacco, and said that many of the crops down in Kentucky averaged $200 and even better to the acre, while a very ordinary yield brought $125 to $175 per acre.

He says that tobacco flourishes best in a limestone soil, but will grow anywhere that anything else can be raised.

Tobacco is a weed, hardy and easy to cultivate. It will stand more dry weather than almost any other plant, and under ordinary conditions will make a good profitable crop. The plants are set out by machinery, and should be in the ground between the last of May and the end of June. The early crop is best, as tobacco that matures in hot weather commands the best prices.

Mr. Hughes distributed a number of packages of Burley seed while here and no doubt many of our citizens will try tobacco culture in a small way this season.

The government statistics for 1907, show that Ohio on 67,000 acres produced 60,480,000 pounds of tobacco, an average of 900 pounds to the acre, while Kentucky in 55 counties on 270,030 acres raised 240,478,000 pounds of tobacco valued at $24,529,000, or 10 1-5 cents a pound.

If Ohio and Kentucky can do so well, there is no reason why Indiana cannot. It seems to us that here is an opportunity for the farmers of Rush county to make more money than in any other way, and we believe it will pay them big to investigate the matter before it is too late for a crop this season. Mr. Hughes says that if enough men here can be interested it would not be long before a warehouse would be established here and this would become a tobacco market worthy the name. There is always a demand for tobacco, the buyers come to the planter and take the crop in the field, and the pay is spot cash.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP WOMAN DIED TODAY

Mrs. Mary Price Succumbs to Tuberculosis After a Long Illness

Mrs. Mary Price, aged 48 years, died at the home of her father, Alfred Hoit, in Jackson township, this morning, death resulting from tuberculosis.

Mrs. Price was born and raised on the same farm. She was the widow of the late Bazzle Price, who died about three years ago, and is survived by four children, three sons, Raymond, Glen and Ora, and one daughter, Mrs. Grace Adams, all of Jackson township. The funeral arrangements have not been definitely arranged.

MEN'S BIG MEETING WILL BE INTERESTING SUNDAY

Earl Wilfley, the Former Actor, is an Orator of Great Ability

The Men's Big Meeting at St. Paul's M. E. church on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, which is to be addressed by Earl Wilfley, a former actor, will not only be interesting, but will be instructive.

Mr. Wilfley will address the men of this city and county on the subject entitled "Shorn Samsons." He is an eloquent orator and a deep thinker and this address should be heard by every man in this community.

Special music by the orchestra and male chorus will be a feature of the afternoon program.

SOIL TRAIN TO COME IN MARCH

Arrangements Completed for the Purdue Experiment Train on the C. H. & D.

MANNED WITH LECTURERS

Experts will be with This Soil Improvements Special—Long Stop Scheduled for Here

Arrangements have just been completed for the running of a soil improvement special train over the C. H. & D. railroad in Indiana on March 9th and 10th. This train is under the auspices of the C. H. & D. Railroad Co. and the Purdue Experiment Station. The train is equipped and operated by the C. H. & D., while the lectures and printed literature are furnished by the Experiment Station.

For a number of years the Experiment Station has been investigating the soil problems of the State, and from these many experiments much valuable and interesting data have been obtained. These results will be presented in the discussion of the use of farmyard manure and legume crops, the value of a systematic rotation of crops, and the use and value of commercial fertilizers. Suggestions will also be given concerning methods by which farmers can test their own soils.

Special effort will be made to make these lectures practical, interesting and beneficial to every one who attends and no one interested should miss the opportunity of gaining valuable information on this most important subject.

The following is the schedule for this locality: Leave Indianapolis March 9th at 6:15 a. m.; Cottage Grove, 8:25-9:00; Liberty, 9:10-9:45; Brownsville, 9:55-10:30; Connersville 10:45-11:20; Glenwood, 11:35-12:10; Rushville, 12:25-1:00 p. m.; Arlington, 1:10-1:45; Morristown, 1:55-2:30.

Germany's Strict Laws.

In no country is the government more strict than in Germany. If a foreigner wishes to remain in a town for some days he must take his passport to the police and receive in exchange for it, together with a sixpenny piece, a permit card, which entitles him to remain there for six months. The passport is pigeonholed. If, however, you desire to change your lodging both you and your landlord must give notice to the police. This system recommends itself not a little, for it prevents pauper immigration. No German is allowed to leave the country unless he can show he has done the military service required of him. If a man is on the point of starting he must delay his departure until he gets a passport showing that he is a free man.

The United States Agricultural Department gives employment to 6,197 persons. In 1867 it employed ninety-nine. The Bureau of Animal Industry alone employs over 3,000.

WAS READY TO DROWN HIMSELF

Young Man, out of Work and Despondent, Found Reeling Towards River

WAS TIRED OF THE WORLD

When he Concluded that the World was Cold, Heartless and Tired of Him

Last night City Marshal Price came upon a fellow acting in a strange manner on the down town streets, and accosting him he began to query him and was surprised to learn that he did so at a most critical moment for the poor unfortunate was then making for the river, where he declared he intended to drown himself.

He gave his name as Albert Stuckey, 26 years of age, and said his home was in Champaign, Illinois. For several months he has been out of work and just came from a tour of the gas belt cities where he was unable to find employment. Unlike many men in his circumstances, he did not drink a drop of intoxicants and seemed to be a man above ordinary intelligence for a laborer.

Until a few days ago he has been fortunate enough to secure enough food to keep body and soul together, but yesterday he was refused food on several occasions, and when he had asked three or four people for two cents that he might write a letter to his relatives and friends and tell them of his sad lot, being refused the paltry two cents he said he came to the conclusion that the world did not care anything about him and could get along very well without him, so he determined on suicide. No sooner had he made up his mind to end his life and think of the leap into eternity than he began to reel around on the sidewalk—possibly partially caused by his weakened condition from hunger—and he was then that the officer happened along and thwarted his plans.

Stuckey was lodged in jail over night and was given assistance today.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

Jack Crush is still in town. He is about the only fellow ever around here who was a nuisance and yet not a nuisance.

"What are you doing Jack?" was asked of him today.

"Mill-doing, Ireckon," he replied. And then with that infectious smile of his spreading under a pair of eyes that sparkled with humor, he continued, "guess I'm hoo-doo-ing principally. I'm looking for a boot Milt Carr lost on his way to town today. Say, I'm going to get out of this d—town before the Purdue special comes through. They tell me it's a soil improvement train, and I'm afraid they would pick me up for a sample of Rush county if I don't take a bath. Let's go get a drink. Take something? I'll take a box of sardines or a basket of shavings. I asked a fellow the other day what he wanted and he took the mayor's office. Here comes Price—so long.

CAPT. GOWDY IS AGAIN AT THE WATSON WHEEL

Capt. John K. Gowdy, who has been laid up at his home in North Perkins street for several days with an attack of the grip, was able to go to Indianapolis this morning to assume charge at the Watson headquarters at the Claypool hotel.

T. M. Green is confined to his home with a severe attack of the grip.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—First Quarter, For
March 1, 1908.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, John vi, 1-21.
Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text,
Isa. xl, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1907, by American Press Association.]

Whether we read in the law, the prophets or the Psalms or the New Testament, we see God revealing Himself in Christ and working His mighty works and speaking His wonderful words which we are to lay to heart and declare to all people. For these things people hunger even as when the multitude followed Jesus in the time of our lesson, and though His precious truths may be set forth by very weak and unworthy instruments, He so honors His own word that the hungering ones are blessed and made a blessing. This I see from year to year in all the classes, and have seen just the same in Japan, China, India, South Africa and many parts of our own land, and I cannot but believe firmly that our Lord is still saying to His redeemed everywhere concerning the multitudes who have no bread of life, "Give ye them to eat," and when we are tempted to consider how little we have to do it with He says concerning what seems to be our where-withal of time or strength or money, "Bring them hither to Me" (Matt. xiv, 16, 18). It should never be a question of what we have or what we can do, but only and always who is He and what can He do. Our part is to yield and let Him work, to trust and obey, our hearts ever saying, "Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, * * * and in Thine hand is power and might." "There is nothing too hard for Thee" (1 Chron. xxix, 11, 12; Jer. xxxii, 17). The multitudes followed because they saw (verse 2), and those without must have something which they can see; hence the necessity of good works profitable to men (Tit. iii, 8). For believers the good word is "Blessed are they that have not seen, yet have believed" (John xx, 29).

At the time of our lesson John the Baptist had been killed, his disciples had buried his body, the apostles had told Jesus all that they had done and taught, and because they had no leisure so much as to eat Jesus had said, "Come apart to a desert place and rest awhile" (Mark vi, 29-31). Instead of rest they found a multitude, many of whom were perhaps on their way to the Passover at Jerusalem, and Jesus received them and spake unto them of the kingdom of God and healed their sick (Luke ix, 10, 11; John vi, 4). If we saw the kingdom as Jesus saw it, and still sees it—as set forth in Ps. lxxii, Isa. xxv and elsewhere, we would be more zealous to hasten it and therefore less apt to say, "Send them away," and more ready to "give them to eat" at any cost.

From the beginning Jesus always knew just what He would do and when and how He would do it, and when we have learned to dwell with Him for His work we cease to ask when and how, but just watch the way, and watch to see what He will say and hold ourselves ready to obey His every word and to do as occasion serve us.

When we find ourselves face to face with a difficulty we should remember that it is that He may show His power and glorify His name, and then we would not presume to make suggestions as Philip and Andrew did. With their 200 pence to buy sufficient bread to give every one a little and the few loaves and fishes not worth mentioning, they remind us of the mountain and the small things of Zech. iv, 7, 10, and also of the walled cities and giants which terrified Israel and the little city of Ai, which they feared not, but which proved too much for them.

When there were no further suggestions from the disciples, then Jesus quietly and orderly did what He intended and always knew that He would, and, having received what the lad had and looked to heaven for the Father's blessing, He allows the disciples to bear to the multitude who were seated in companies on the grass sufficient to fill them all and leave twelve baskets full over. Thus He manifested our insufficiency and His all sufficiency—the great lesson we are so slow to learn. He might work without us, but He graciously sees fit to use us when we are willing. This particular miracle depended upon the lad's surrender of all that he had—even that which he seemed really to need—and who can tell what mighty things He will work in our individual lives when we are as fully surrendered to Him as the lad's loaves and fishes?

Let us note again—and with prayerful consideration—that this is the only miracle recorded by each of the four evangelists or, perhaps better, in each of the four gospels, and ask, What is the great lesson here for my soul? I am persuaded that in my own life this miracle and the story of this lad is back of all this Bible class and missionary work in which the Lord has so graciously and wondrously given me a partnership with Himself.

Some one has said that this story sets forth the one business of the church in this age—giving forth the bread of life—while that which follows in Matthew, Mark and John, the disciples tolling in rowing against a head wind with Jesus away on the mountain top in prayer, suggests the condition of the church while the Lord continues on the Father's right hand.

The Keystone President.
The Pennsylvania state union has had many genial, hustling presidents in the twenty odd years of its history, but probably none more enthusiastic

REV. DR. R. G. BANNEN.

In the work than Rev. R. G. Bannen, D. D., of Williamsport, Pa., who is now serving for his first term.

Dr. Bannen was one of the state's delegates to the Seattle convention, and under his leadership the Keystone State was well at the front in all the activities of that great gathering.

Fellowship in Christian Endeavor.

General Secretary Shaw in his biennial report says: Let us stand by our fellowship, interdenominational, international and interracial, blest of God and blessing men.

One of the grandest tributes ever paid to Christian Endeavor is that given by those who are opposed to any union of the churches, even of the broken fragments of the same denomination, when they say that Christian Endeavor is responsible for the present spirit of union so manifest in many quarters. We accept the responsibility and thank God that we have been counted worthy to help on the glorious consummation of that day of which the lamented Dr. Dickinson sung:

O golden day, so long desired,
Born of a darksome night,
The waiting earth at last is fired
By thy resplendent light,
And, hark, like Memnon's morning chord,
Is heard from sea to sea
This song: One Master, Christ the Lord,
And brethren all are we.

The noises of the night shall cease,
The storms no longer roar;
The factious foes of God's own peace
Shall vex His church no more.
A thousand thousand voices sing
The surging harmony:
One Master, Christ, our Saviour King,
And brethren all are we.

Sing on, ye chorus of the morn,
Your grand Endeavor strain
Till Christian hearts, estranged and torn,
Blend in the glad refrain,
And all the church, with all its powers,
In loving loyalty,
Shall sing: One Master, Christ, is ours,
And brethren all are we.

O golden day, the age's crown,
Alight with heavenly love,
Rare day in prophecy renown,
On to thy zenith move,
When all the world with one accord
In full voiced unity
Shall sing: One Master, Christ our Lord,
And brethren all are we.

Let us work and pray that the time may soon come when Christian Endeavor shall unite the young people of all denominations and when, in loyalty to our own church and in fellowship with others, we shall win and train for Christ and His church the young people of the whole wide world.

THE "GWEED NEEBORS."

A Belief in Fairies Still Exists in Parts of Scotland.

There still lingers a widespread belief in the north of Scotland that the "fair folk," or "gweed neebors," as the fairies are called, still live in the hills, and during the first days of convalescence a mother must be zealously guarded lest one of the "wee people" come and rob the child of its nourishment. Sometimes they succeed in carrying off the mother. Here is one of the superstitious legends:

A north country fisher had a fine child. One evening a beggar woman entered the hut and went up to the cradle to gaze into the eyes of the babe. From that time good health left it, and a strange look came into its face, and the mother was troubled. An old man begging for food passed that way. When he caught sight of the child he cried:

"That's nae a bairn. It's an image, and the gweed folk has stoun his speerit."

Thereupon he set to work to recall the fisher's bairn. A peat fire was heaped high on the hearth and a black hen held over it at such a distance that it was singed and not killed. After some struggling the hen escaped up the lum. A few moments elapsed, and then the parents were gladdened by the sight of a happy expression once more on the child's face. It throve from that day forward.—Spectator.

"I'm Afraid to Come Home in the Dark"—Jinks Gohring—Grand Theatre March 19th.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning March 1, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Songs of the heart.—III. How God leads men.—Ps. xxiii.

Under the general topic, "Songs of the Heart," we have already studied as special subjects (1) "What is true blessedness?" (2) "How God speaks to men." We now come to the third in the series, "How God leads men." The Scripture selected to illustrate God's leading of men is the Twenty-third Psalm: This is one of the shepherd psalms of David. It is undoubtedly one of the most familiar of all the psalms of David, being the first that is usually taught to the youngest child in the home or in the Sabbath school. It is also one of the most comforting psalms. It is not only recited by almost infant voices who do not understand its deep significance, but it is remembered and repeated by the aged saints of God when in declining years they enter "the valley of the shadow of death." Many dying saints of God have pillored their heads upon these sacred words and in peace have fallen asleep in death. If David had done nothing else than leave the world this brief poetic gem, his life would have been well worth living.

The Twenty-third Psalm emphasizes the fact that God does lead us, and this of itself is no small fact. The pathway of life often seems to us so perplexing and so uncertain and its end so shrouded in mystery that we might well at times give up in despair did we not remember that the eternal God leads us. He who is able to make the crooked path straight, to unravel the most perplexing problems of life, to bring light out of darkness and joy out of sorrow, is our guide and our leader. Well, therefore, may we place our hands in His and follow His leading, daily praying unto Him:

Lead, kindly Light, amid the encircling gloom;
Lead Thou me on.
The night is dark, and I am far from home;
Lead Thou me on.

Keep Thou my feet; I do not ask to see
The distant scene—One step enough for me.

But, assured that the Lord does lead us, we may ask, How does He lead us?

1. God leads us in the temporal affairs of life. He leads us as a shepherd leads his sheep, and the object of the shepherd's leading was to procure food and drink for his flock. The oriental shepherd had no abiding place for his flocks. He moved them from place to place that he might find green pastures and still waters for them. Thus God, our great shepherd, leads us. "The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures. He leadeth me beside the still waters." The shepherd provided abundantly for his sheep. So does God for us if we will but trust Him and follow Him. We shall not want. Our tables shall be spread and sufficiently supplied with good things. To many life is but a battle for bread. It is a struggle for physical existence. But these things to those who follow God's leadership need cause no worry or overanxiety. "The Lord will provide." He always has, and He always will. Only trust Him, and all worry over present or future provision for temporal wants may be abandoned.

2. God leads us in the spiritual affairs of our lives. "He restoreth my soul. He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake." Every soul is dead in sin. God in Christ restores our spiritual lives. After restoration He perfects them. We no longer walk in the paths of sin, but He leads us in the paths of righteousness and of peace. And when the soul faces its greatest crisis—dissolution from the body—we may still lean upon Him. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." And even beyond death God still keeps us. "I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever." How comprehensive the leadership of God—in life, in death, in eternity! Why should we fear? Why should we worry? Why should we be overanxious? "Commit thy way unto the Lord, trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. xl, 9-11, Jer. xxxiii, 3, 4; Ezek. xxxiv, 11-16; Ps. xxxvii, 5; lv, 22; Mark ii, 14; Luke xv, 1-10; John x, 1-10.

It Might Have Been Worse.

Mark Twain, during one of his lecture tours, was waiting at a station for a delayed train. The lecture committee and several townsmen were with him and talking their best to pass the time away. One man told about a frightfully unhealthy town he had read about, and it was a greswome tale of dying and burials and that sort. "It might have been worse," Twain followed, in his slow and direct manner. "I lived in that same town for two years, and I never died once—not a single time." The way he said it seemed to daze the crowd, and not a man said a word in response. "Of course you may think I'm lying," the humorist continued, "and I'm sorry, for I can't get any witnesses to testify that I didn't, because everybody else that lived there is dead."

SEVERE MEASURES

Will Hereafter Be Taken With Students Caught In Dishonesty.

PURDUE TAKES THE LEAD

New Rule to Reduce Student Dishonesty Has Been Put In Force at State School.

Class Work Must Hereafter Be Done on the Square or Students Shall Suffer.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 28.—Determined to reduce student dishonesty to the lowest point possible, the faculty of Purdue university has adopted the following rule: "A student found guilty of dishonesty by the faculty shall not participate in any public exercise as a member of any student or university organization." This new rule has just taken effect, and the faculty intends to enforce it by prohibiting any student found guilty of any dishonest act from representing a class or the university in any way.

The faculty's attitude is thus defined by one of the members: "The faculty believes that no self-respecting student will condone dishonesty in class work any more than in any other station of life. It points out the inevitable loss to the individual who relies on deceptive methods to meet class requirements, because it deprives him of the trait of self-reliance; it believes that college men above all others should constitute a body which cherishes and preserves honest principles in all things, in an age of laxity in this respect; it will oppose in every reasonable manner the extension and existence of this evil in college life; but on the other hand will not hesitate to apply severe measures to all who fail to exercise self-control or disregard kindly warning in regard to it."

On a first offense a student will be dismissed from the particular class, and on a second offense will be dismissed from the university.

INDIANA BOY SHANGHAIED

Taken Aboard a Sailing Vessel and Carried to Norway.

North Judson, Ind., Feb. 28.—Duke Bunnell, the eighteen-year-old son of A. J. Bunnell, has just returned home after a mysterious absence of six months. Young Bunnell says that while in Mobile, Ala., he was shanghaied and taken aboard a Norwegian sailing vessel to Molde, Norway. He says he met a friendly chap in a Mobile saloon, that he had several drinks with him and that he remembered nothing more until he was on the schooner Fram, two days out from Mobile.

When taken before Captain Rasmussen he told him that he did not know how he had come aboard, whereupon the captain told him that he was one of three men furnished by an agency, and he was sorry if foul methods had been employed to obtain him. Work was given Bunnell in the kitchen, and he remained with the boat until Molde was reached, from which place he shipped home.

State Convention Plans.

Indianapolis, Feb. 28.—Congressman Jesse Overstreet of Indianapolis probably will be chosen to deliver the keynote speech at the Republican state convention, April 1. He has been consulted and it is said that he is willing to serve as temporary chairman and make the principal speech of the convention. The state committee will have a meeting within a few days to arrange for the convention, and the selection of Overstreet for temporary chairman will be recommended then. Overstreet has been a member of congress from this district for twelve years and is regarded as one of the conservative leaders. His appointment will be taken as a compliment to this district.

Woman Fatally Burned.

Mishawaka, Ind., Feb. 28.—Paper which Mrs. John Harkins had placed over her bread in order to save the upper crust caught fire as she opened the oven door and the flames shot out, igniting her clothing and burning all the hair off her head. Presence of mind caused the woman to rush to a door, fly over a porch and plunge herself into a deep snowdrift a few feet away. Her burns are terrible, and it is believed the accident will prove fatal.

Take Your Choice.

Logansport, Ind., Feb. 28.—The city council, hearing charges in impeachment against Mayor McKee, split during the trial last night, the majority adjourning to the circuit court room, where a vote of impeachment was passed. The minority remained in the council chamber and voted for the mayor's acquittal. Legal complications of an unusual character have been created.

What's the Matter With the Cows?

Clay City, Ind., Feb. 28.—A strange disease is affecting the cattle in the neighborhood of Brunswick, near this city. After lying down they are not able to rise without assistance. A number have died. The disease seems to affect the brain and spine, and no remedy has as yet been found.

DESTROYED PATENT PAPERS

This Is the Charge on Which Washington Arrests Have Been Made.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Ned W. Barton, an assistant examiner of the patent office; Henry E. Everding, a patent attorney with offices in the Hale building, 1328 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and John A. Heany of York, Pa., an inventor, were indicted by the grand jury and arrested on a charge of destroying public records. Bail was fixed at $10,000. The indictment charges that the three "with intent to steal and destroy" carried away from the patent office letters, specifications and amendments and unlawfully and wilfully destroyed them. The indictments were brought under Section 5403 of the revised statutes. They set forth that on Sept. 2, 1907, there was on file an application by Heany for a patent on an invention for manufacturing filaments and electrodes for electric incandescent and arc lamps.

These were filed in the office on Jan. 19, 1905. With the application were other papers and specifications and a letter dated March 28, 1905, addressed to Heany, bearing the stamped signature of Commissioner of Patents Allen, Acting Examiner Cowles of "Division 37," of which Barton was examiner, and Assistant Examiner Day. An amendment to the application was filed in July, 1905. Papers in this case were destroyed, according to the indictment.

It is alleged that through connivance with Ned W. Barton, Heany and Everding outrivaled more than twenty of the largest electrical concerns in the country, striving to get the same patent. All of these concerns had filed applications for a patent, but from time to time Barton, it is charged, would see the specifications and employ whatever he desired for perfecting Heany's invention. To be successful in this plan it was necessary to destroy certain records and file substitutes therefor. The invention involved is thought to be very valuable, and a great advantage would attend it if a date of invention sufficiently early to antedate the prior inventions or others could be secured. To be successful in this plan it was necessary to destroy original records of the office and to place in the files substitutes therefor, and by changing the dates of receiving stamps make it appear that substitute papers were in fact filed upon the fictitious dates stamped on the papers. In view of the findings, therefore, of the grand jury, Commissioner Moore recommends to Mr. Garfield, secretary of the interior, the immediate dismissal of Assistant Examiner Barton, which was at once approved.

Notwithstanding the vast moneyed interests involved in patents and the consequent many opportunities for corruption arising therefrom and from the necessity of relying upon the integrity of each individual examiner, owing to the technical and judicial character of the work of the patent office, no examiner has ever been shown false hitherto to the trust imposed upon him in all the 118 years of existence of the United States patent system.

Missouri Republicans Act.

St. Louis, Feb. 28.—Resolutions favoring the candidacy of Secretary William H. Taft for president and commending the administration of President Roosevelt, were adopted by the Republican state convention here. In addition, Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley was endorsed as the Republican nominee for governor; Charles Nagel of St. Louis was made the choice of the convention for national committeeman, and four delegates-at-large to the national convention and four alternates were selected.

Deadlock Not Broken.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 27.—Despite reports to the contrary, one prominent coal operator declared today that the deadlock between the operators and miners of the northern, central and southern Illinois fields had not been broken and that the operators were prepared to hold out until March 1, when the present wage agreement expires. President John H. Walker of Illinois has declared that the prospects are for a general suspension of work.

Couldn't Endure Dismissal.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—Despondent and ashamed over the fact that he had been discharged from a position he held for twenty-two years, Ernst Eugene Meier, chief clerk in the German consulate at Cincinnati, committed suicide by shooting himself at his home here. At the German consulate it was stated that Meier had been discharged for "inattention to duty."

Acquitted of Old Charge.

Greencastle, Ind., Feb. 27.—One bail was required by the jury to find Benjamin F. Simpson not guilty of the forgery charge which has been hanging over him for several years, and for which he has had four trials. Simpson has spent a moderate fortune in attorney expenses in the successive trials.

Bold Russian Train Robbery.

Kielce, Russian Poland, Feb. 27.—Ten brigands attacked a train, hurling three bombs at it and firing many shots from their rifles. They killed one soldier and wounded three soldiers and three trainhands. They made their escape on the engine of the train with $10,000 in gold.

Speaking of the right of self-government, if we all had it, what would be left for the professional politicians to do?

Albert Lieber, the great Indianapolis brewer, announces that he will raise an army of 85,000 to fight a radical temperance reform.

When the big U. S. fleet, now going north on the west coast of South America arrives safely at the Golden Gate there will be lively times in that locality.

"Joe" Cannon says he never swears. "Sometimes," he added, "when emphasis is needed, I may use a word or two not in the dictionary, but it is not in any sense profanity. It is merely for emphasis."

A peculiar outcome of the Hargis paricide case in Breathitt county, Kentucky, is that the guilty son will receive $50,000 of the wealth of the man he killed. The will which Judge Hargis is known to have made cannot be found.

According to the Richmond Palladium, Mr. Haas, the Republican chairman of the Sixth district is kept busy denying political canards. One was from this county—a fish tale about the way the congressional delegates were selected here. It is always the case that during a campaign year, especially if there are several candidates who seek the same office, that a good many rumors are set afloat and believed, rumors that ordinarily would receive no credence whatever.

Tom Taggart has been having things his own way all this time, and he certainly must feel the rebuke he received by his party in Marion county. It cannot be gainsaid that a considerable element of his party would welcome his removal or withdrawal from the head of the national organization. The trend of political conditions is now upward, for neither party can afford to ignore the demand of sentiment, arising from enlightened understanding and awakened conscience. The demand for men of the Tom Taggart stripe in politics is happily, rapidly disappearing.

Mark Twain became quite sarcastic when he read the report from Washington that the House committee on coinage had reported favorably on the bill restoring the motto on the gold coins, "In God we Trust." Mark said: "I read in a telegram from Washington today that Congress would immediately pass a bill restoring to our gold coinage the words, 'In God we trust.' I am glad of that. I thought we would get into difficulties if we left it off, and straightway they came. The prosperity of the whole Nation went down in a pile when he ceased to trust God in that conspicuous and well advertised way. I knew it would come. If Pierpont Morgan hadn't stepped in just then and—well, Bishop Lawrence may add to the message that he is sending to the other side that we again trust in God. So we can now discharge Mr. Morgan from his office with honor."

INDIANA POLITICS

BY ROBERT G. TUCKER

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—Governor Hanly has taken a hand in the settlement of the controversy here between the two telephone companies and the city. The Indianapolis Telephone company (independent) has asked for an amendment to its franchise permitting it to increase its rates. It asserts that it cannot give the service it desires with the present rates. A strong public sentiment has been manifested against any increase in rates. A proposition has come from the Central Union interests looking to a consolidation of the companies here. This, however, has been opposed by the independents. The city has not indicated what position it will take. Governor Hanly has written to Mayor Bookwalter suggesting that Charles V. McAdams, member of the state railroad commission, make a thorough investigation of the condition of the two companies. He says that McAdams is competent and willing to undertake the work and to make a report to the city that may prove a basis for settlement of the dispute. The governor declares that the state is a large patron of the telephone companies here and that it has the right of a voice in the settlement of the dispute. He thinks that there should be a consolidation of the companies. He proposes that McAdams shall not charge a fee for his work, but that the two companies and the city shall equally divide the cost of the proposed investigation.

It is said that an organization is being made in every district in the state to defeat National Chairman Taggart if his name is presented for national committeeman from this state. The leaders of the Taggart opposition here believe they have him on the run because of the result of the recent contest over the Marion county organization, and it is said they are losing no time or opportunity of going after him in every locality where they can find anyone to take up their cause. Mr. Taggart's friends are active in his behalf, but it is apparent that he is not working at the political game as he has in other campaigns. He announced some time ago, however, that he would like to be re-elected national committeeman. It has been the understanding that Mr. Taggart would be elected a delegate-at-large because of the fact that he will be national chairman until after the presidential nomination is made, but it is now declared his opponents not only propose to defeat him for committeeman if possible, but keep him from going to the convention as a delegate. It is rumored here that the Taggart opposition is preparing to bring out candidates for delegates-at-large from Indiana. If their followers are able to control the primaries and the state convention they will elect three delegates from here to oppose the re-election of Mr. Taggart as Democratic national committeeman. Some of the leaders in the fight for control of the county organization which resulted in the election of William Fogarty as chairman will be selected as candidates for delegates if this plan works out. This element now has control of the county organization, and Chairman Fogarty will be able to appoint all of the election officers. He has promised to be the chairman of the entire party, but some of Mr. Taggart's most active political opponents managed his campaign, and it is said that they will demand his assistance in defeating anyone for delegate from here who may be favorable to Taggart's re-election.

The development in the camp of the First district Democrats is the effort on the part of the friends of Mayor John W. Boehne to induce him to accept the Democratic nomination for congress in the First district. Mayor Boehne has not stated that he would accept the nomination, but it is believed he would agree to make the race in case the nomination went to him without opposition. Mayor Boehne has been a passive candidate for the nomination for governor, but he has not entered actively into the fight, and his friends say that he does not anticipate the convention will be stampeded to him. His friends have been pointing out to him that because of his reform record as mayor he is the logical candidate for congress this year. There is a strong temperance sentiment in the counties of the First district outside of Evansville and his friends say the mayor would profit greatly by this as well as by the fight that the Anti-Saloon League expects to make on the re-election of Congressman John H. Foster.

CURRENT COMMENT

Two Morals From a Great Case.
Harry K. Thaw had a fair trial. But his money didn't give him a one sided trial, as it was often predicted would be the case. He was saved from the electric chair by the very argument that the prosecuting attorney himself injected into the trial the first time. He said that it would be a wrong to prosecute an insane man for murder. Thaw's money couldn't vitally strengthen a contention which the state's attorney believed was on the side of justice. There will always be two opinions as to where criminal responsibility ends and where it begins again, but the weight of testimony in this case

A Big Gain.
[Edison has invented a hundred mile battery that will enable automobiles to dispense with gasoline and chauffeurs.]
To call the man a wizard isn't any sort of flattery.
"A public benefactor" sounds almighty weak and slim.
He's done a lot already, but this automatic battery
Makes any past achievement by comparison seem dim.
I haven't any chauffeur. My appreciative attitude
Is not due to the circumstance of owning a machine,
But all the same my heart is overflowing with its gratitude.
For, heavens, how I've suffered with that smell of gasoline!
I know that men whose patience and forbearance touch sublimity
Have knit their brows in something that amounted to a frown
And uttered words betraying quite a loss of equanimity
When running out of petrol about twenty miles from town.
I've heard, too, that some chauffeurs have a way of most disdainfully
Regarding their employers—that, in fact, they're pretty mean.
I think that things like that affect a motorist quite painfully,
But I'll be glad of freedom from the smell of gasoline.
A trolley car can move me with an adequate celerity.
I have no taste for touring, which is funny, I suppose.
A trip upon the train, too, is a tax on my temerity.
But that infernal odor is an insult to my nose.
So when I say I'm thankful it is not the common platitude.
This boon I do regard with an appreciation keen.
I say again my heart is overflowing with its gratitude.
If anything disgusts me it's the smell of gasoline.
—Kenneth Harris in Chicago News.

seemed to show that the impulse that led to the killing was of insane origin. And mere riches should not rob a man of the benefit of a doubt.

Another lesson from the case is that men of position and influence in great cities do not as a rule take under their wings attractive and talented young women simply to encourage artistic merit. Talented young women are as thick as blackberries in this country. The mother who fondly imagines that her daughter is one among a thousand and that all the attentions of men to her are in the nature of appreciation of talent which deserves to be encouraged is probably spelling mishap for her. FATE OF CRIMINALS.

Judge Whitman Favors Life Imprisonment For Habituals.

TOO MUCH SYMPATHY WASTED

Reform of Felons Over Thirty Is Impossible, Claims New York Jurist. Urges Removing Crime's Causes and Less Reformation.

Judges, lawyers and students of criminology have been commenting upon the stand taken by Charles S. Whitman, recently judge of the court of general sessions in New York, who not only says that either death or life imprisonment should be the sentence for habitual criminals, but also declares that too much sympathy is wasted upon criminals of both sexes. Judge Whitman, who is generally regarded as the deepest student of criminology in New York city, in discussing his views with a reporter of the New York Herald asserted that the cases of criminals reforming after having reached the age of thirty are practically unheard of.

State prison should not be confounded with reformatories, he says, and while the latter do good and have some effect in reforming young prisoners, criminals who are sent to penitentiaries come out far more vicious and dangerous than when they were sentenced. They have gained shrewdness, and a man who has a prison record is of far more danger to the community than one who has never been behind prison bars.

The way to eliminate crime, Judge Whitman says, is to eliminate criminals. The laws should be made more drastic, for every year it is getting harder and harder to punish prisoners guilty of the crimes for which they were arrested.

In speaking of the causes of crime and the making of criminals the jurist declares that the low pay of women in the shops in New York city has had much to do with their downfall. Better wages would take away many of their temptations. In summing up the situation he said:

"It is getting harder and harder every day to bring the criminal to proper punishment. I do not believe this to be the fault of the jury system, for that seems about as satisfactory an arrangement as we can get. It is the fault of the people themselves. We are too lenient, too good natured, too prone to look lightly, not to say with some amusement, on the offender, and of course this is the charitable view, and the man who holds it lays the flattering unction to his soul that he is a 'good fellow,' a sympathizer with the frailties of fellow humans. The man who so argues makes the mistake of his life.

"Let the burglar or the murderer or offender of any sort who has committed a crime of any moment be sent to the Tombs, and it's only a few days before he comes to feel he's a hero and perfectly entitled to the sympathy and the flowers and the tokens that begin to flow in from the sentimental as soon as the facts become public and he has gained his little newspaper notoriety. Maudlin sentimentality is aroused. The criminal gets his picture in the papers. He is a celebrity. His cause is furthered by the popular ideas that find expressions in the newspapers, the magazines and the theaters. There is a romanticism clinging about him which is absent from the life of the well ordered.

"The tardiness of trying prisoners is responsible for a great many of the acquittals, for the misplaced sympathy of the public has had a chance to grow to proportions sufficient to offset the terrifying aspects of crime. This must always be so under the present system of delay in trials, for which the district attorney of this county is in no way responsible.

"Our highly technical practice is responsible for much delay. I believe if we had a revision of the code, longer prison terms, quicker trials and only one appeal we'd be protecting society in the most practical way under the law.

"But the primary obstacle to the betterment of conditions is the foolish attitude of the people who glorify released criminals and ignore those who have not fallen, but still are in need of the sympathy that is being wasted. Especially is this true of the woman offender. Many love to hear eloquent discourses on the salvation of the girl of the streets. I know the view I hold is not the popular one, but nevertheless I am firmly of the belief that the woman of the streets does not reform any more than does her brother of the burglar kit and dark lantern. And she is a most dangerous factor in the spread of crime. Most of her class are thieves, and most of them support thieves of the opposite sex, and therefore their influence for evil is most extensive.

"Instead of wasting so much sympathy on the girls who have fallen, why not expend some practical consideration on the young woman who may be in danger of falling? This, it seems to me, would be the better plan. The ounce of prevention outweighs the pound of cure many fold.

"It is well nigh impossible, in my opinion, for the shopgirl getting $4 or $5 a week to live in New York in a self respecting manner.

"If there were less sympathy and commiseration for the criminal and the unfortunate creatures of the streets and more first aid to the needy, there might be less transgression in the matter of the social evil."

DINNER $200 A PLATE.

Wine Flowed From a Fountain In an Elaborately Decorated Room.

In a garden of roses, with clinging vines loaded with tropical fruits, Julius Myers, a wealthy cloak manufacturer, entertained a party of friends before dawn the other morning, treating them to one of the costliest meals ever served in New York city. Some figured the cost at $200 a plate and others at $300.

There were fifteen men at the meal, with Mr. Myers making the sixteenth. It was held at a well known restaurant.

The dining hall was reached through arcades of floral arches carried on columns of sunlax and evergreens. A cross arch marked off the entrance at the eastern end of the hall, and a line of rectangular flower bowers flanked the western side where the fifty musicians were hidden. Four colossal marble columns supporting statuary marked the space leading to the great dining table.

This had been built up in the center of the hall with huge copper tanks hidden with water lilies and natural flowers, so that the center of the table appeared like a great lake, on which floated live swans and ducks. In the water could be seen live lobsters, crabs and various game fish swimming about. An outer stream about the table was wine that flowed from a fountain in the center.

The cigars cost $5 each and were especially made in Cuba for the dinner.

Skipper of the Turkish Navy.

The new admiral of the Turkish navy, which, by the way, ranks second after that of Switzerland, is a down east skipper named Ransford D. Buckham of Bucksport, Me. Perhaps he has been a "bucko" skipper and will find good practice in the Turkish navy, but the ships, or ship, will have to go to sea a little more than has been the custom.

Salton Sea Experiments.

Evaporation measurements on a larger scale than ever heretofore attempted are to be made by the United States weather bureau in the Salton basin. A chain of stations will be erected around the Salton sea, and accurate measurements of evaporation will be made at each station as well as records of the rate of fall of the sea itself. The area of the sea is now about 446 square miles, and the rate of fall of its level during the years prior to the time when the contents of the basin became highly charged with salt will furnish a most valuable record of the average evaporation rate in this arid region.

Enthusiasm.

Nothing else is so contagious as enthusiasm. It is the real allegory of the fute of Orpheus. It moves stone. It charms brutes. Enthusiasm is the genius of sincerity, and truth accomplishes no victory without it.—Bulwer Lytton.

If we had no failings ourselves we should not take so much pleasure in finding out those of others.—Rochefoucauld.

Uniform Rank Knights of Pythias will Attend Encampment at Boston

The annual encampment, U. R. K. of P., will be held next August in Boston and the local company proposes to show what a real, live for sure, life-sized uniform rank company looks like. It is not the intention to enter any of the competitive drills, but Rushville will be there with both feet.

In order to come up to the mildest expectations it behooves the company to turn out and get into practice. Nothing can be accomplished without co-operation. Every member of the order should take this matter to heart and turn out upon the call of the captain as soon as the weather will permit. It is not expected that the entire company will attend the encampment but those who do go or expect to go, should turn out and do their best to win the favor of an admiring public and maintain the record they already have attained.

BEGINS LIFE OF GREAT PROMISE

But Henry C. Guffin was Stricken a Severe Blow at a Critical Time

SKETCH OF A SAD LIFE

That Started with every Prospect of Being an Illustrious One—
Had Hard Battle

BY GEORGE GUFFIN

Henry C. Guffin was born about 65 years ago on the old Guffin farm, two miles east of Rushville, now owned by Willard Amos. He died at Indianapolis on Thursday, February 20th, 1908. Two days later, with a quiet, private Christian burial, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hendrickson, he was laid to rest in the great city of the dead, attended by his daughter, Willa, and his brother George (the only surviving member of the family), his wife, Lot D., and George P. Guffin, Mrs. Orestina Mauzy, and a few friends.

Harry was widely known. He loved Rush county and its people, and always spoke their praise. An orphan at six months of age, he fought the battle of life bravely.

His early education was in the public schools. He united with the Christian church at Little Flatrock in his youth. He was also a member and deacon of the Third Christian church of Indianapolis for years. He received his classic education at Fairview Academy, under the Rev. D. R. Van Buskirk as principal; two years at Antioch College, Ohio, under the great educator, Horace Mann; three years at Butler University, under Dr. A. R. Benton as president, graduating from that institution with high honors in 1883. He was a ready and fluent speaker and debater in college, and delivered many lectures and addresses on the current topics of the day after leaving college.

He read law and recited to George Clark, of Rushville, during which time he taught school in the Winship neighborhood; also at Little Flatrock Seminary.

He was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Hillis, of Greensburg, in 1885. To this union were born two children, Willa (Mrs. Frank Morris) and Jessie (Mrs. W. F. Hall), who reside in Chicago at this time.

Shortly after his marriage he located in Indianapolis and began the practice of law, without money, but with heroic courage. He always had a tender regard for the kindly influence of the Hon. W. A. Cullen, who helped him to the position of clerk in the lower house of the legislature. His law practice was phenomenal. He was soon elected to the office of prosecuting attorney of the criminal court of Marion county, and was also deputy prosecutor one term.

With that quick success which enabled him to accumulate some money, he plunged into the wild speculations in city property in the boom days of real estate in the city of Indianapolis in 1873-78, when fortunes were made and lost in quick succession—as many Rushville and Rush county people remember to their loss and sorrow. The crash finally came, and with it his hopes, his dreams and his ambitions perished. Homeless, penniless and hopelessly involved, the blow to his highly nervous temperament was too great. While able to converse with his friends with a degree of intelligence and satisfaction on many subjects, his aberration of mind was money and money getting, of which he showed as little capacity as a child. He was in the asylum twelve years, with a record of gentle, harmless contentment.

Such is the sad sketch of one who started in the morning of life with regal promise and a bright future, but at the noonday was overshadowed by a cloud and shorn of its usefulness. In compassion and forgetfulness we would cover with the mantle of charity all that was dark and troubled in the life of the one that has gone, and remember the bright boy, the cultured scholar, the successful lawyer, the Christian man, and as God is just and doeth all things well, let us hope and believe that our brother in the morning of the resurrection, will be one of that redeemed throng which no man can number, who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the lamb.

CARE OF THE STOMACH.

Indigestion May be Overcome
by Simple Treatment.

In the treatment of stomach troubles, the first thing to do is to get the mucous membrane of the stomach and intestines into a healthy condition.

Next in importance comes a strengthening and stimulation of the muscles of the stomach and bowels. Both results can be best accomplished by the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, a combination of healing remedies for the raw and irritated mucous membrane and strengtheners for the stomach muscles.

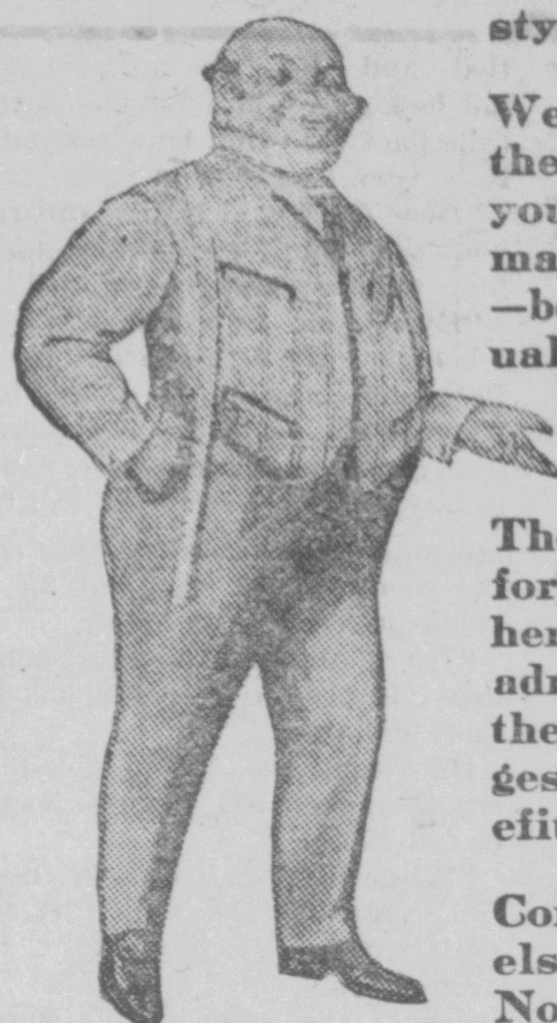

Mi-o-na is not a mere digestive remedy, but is an absolute cure for all stomach disorders (except cancer), and is so reliable in its action that Johnson's drug store sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless it cures. Every sufferer with stomach troubles should get a 50-cent box and test its virtue on this guarantee, that it will cost nothing unless it cures.

Pine-salve Carboselid acts like a poultice, draws out inflammation and poison. Antiseptic healing. For chapped hands, lips, cuts, burns.

CHAPTER VI.
A FEW days later Dr. Kinross, dressed in his overalls and lying on his back in the woods behind a pile of logs, found himself in the enforced position of an eavesdropper and felt it exceedingly awkward. A few feet away, beneath his own favorite shade tree, sat Miss Georgiana Ellery and Miss Daisy Parks. He had not counted upon their penetrating to this resort to which he came daily with his books. His telltale volume and compromising leisure, in the middle of the afternoon, from the farm work in which he was supposed to be engaged made it imperative at the warning signal of their voices that he should scramble out of sight behind a nearby pile of logs. He had barely had time to conceal himself when they had come into view and presumptuously proceeded to settle themselves for the afternoon in the comfortable spot which their coming forced him to abandon, thus making it impossible for him to move an inch without discovery and placing him in the discreditable position of being obliged to hear everything that was said.

"Have you noticed, Daisy," he heard Georgiana's attractive voice asking, almost as soon as they were seated, "anything about that farm hand, Peter, which has impressed you as singular?"

"He isn't as woody looking as 'pop' and Abe," Daisy promptly answered. "Daisy! How can you, in the very heart of the country, use that detestable city slang?"

"Well, Georgie," Daisy returned plaintively, "I'm sure I never wanted to go to college. You and uncle made me!"

"Did college do nothing for you but give you a vocabulary of slang?" "But, Georgie, Pete isn't as woody looking—I mean," she hastily corrected herself, "he's rather good looking and—as there's nothing else doing out here I'm thinking of flirting with Pete, if you won't kick—object, I should say."

"Why Pete? Why not Abe?" Georgiana inquired tolerantly. "Abe's too woody—oh! I don't want to jar you, Georgiana—forgive me. Of course I feel, too, how perfectly dear and sweet it is out here with so much nature around and everything—but I just thought I'd mention, since there's nothing doing, just to keep up my courage a little, you know, I'd encourage Pete to fall in love with me. Do you know," she said thoughtfully, "I shouldn't wonder if Pete would be quite good looking if he were sported up."

"I foresee the fate of Georgiana," Daisy glibly read, "when she comes home in the fall and meets our swell new prof., Dr. Peter Kinross. That chaste Diana cannot fail to lose her heart to this Endymion if for no other reason than that the man won't notice her. He won't take girls seriously. (Georgiana will see that he takes her seriously, won't she?) He seems to think that girls belong only to the holiday side of life, and he hasn't time for holidays. I'm crazy to have him meet Georgiana with her serious views. He'll learn then that some girls can't be taken lightly, I might say mockingly (for he is the most sarcastic pig I ever saw; I can't abide him). I am sure Georgiana will surprise and impress him—Oh," Daisy broke off gleefully, "jilt him, Georgiana, won't you?"

"Do you know, Daisy," Georgiana returned earnestly, "a man like that, who is repelled by the lack of earnestness in the average girl whom one meets socially—"

"(Am I that kind of chump?" Kinross wondered.)

"—such a man," Georgiana continued thoughtfully, "I might be able to welcome on my own line of march, to clasp hands with him, to find a oneness—"

"(Thank God I thought of these overalls," Kinross told himself fervently.) "One can't trust Belle Dasher's opinion of a man, though," Daisy inserted. "She's such a man hater. She hates men so I wonder she even has a man for a brother-in-law! She says she thinks men, as a sex, are very much overrated."

Georgiana had no reply to make to these inane comments, and for awhile there was silence between them, the only sound coming to Kinross' ears being the rattle of paper indicating the turning of the pages of books. This continued so long that he began to grow restive. If he moved hand or foot they would hear and discover him. Were they going to sit there and read for the rest of the afternoon? Already he was becoming cramped from being in one position so long. But how get out of his predicament? To make his presence known and reveal the fact that he had heard their discussion of himself—that is, of Pete, the farm hand—would be embarrassing to them, of course. He himself could bear up under it complacently enough.

"Something's got to be done!" he thought, feeling an intolerable necessity for straining his legs.

The two young ladies, engrossed in their reading, were suddenly startled by the sound of a long drawn yawn, coming apparently out of space.

"What was that?" cried Daisy. "A tramp?" Georgiana whispered back with enforced calm. She never allowed externals to disturb her inward serenity, for it was possible for the soul to live on a plane above all outward things.

"Where?" demanded Daisy in a tragic voice. "I don't know," said Georgiana. Another prolonged yawn and the sound of rustling leaves very near. "Behind those logs?" suggested Daisy fearfully.

"Let us go away," said Georgiana, speaking, it must be admitted, nervously. "But in what direction shall we go? I'm not sure he's behind those logs." "Look and see," begged Georgiana. "It's up to you," declared Daisy with unexpected rebellion. "I'm afraid. I admit it!"

Georgiana cautiously rose and took a few steps to the logs. Dr. Kinross stretched his arms above his head and yawned ostentatiously. "Oh," exclaimed Georgiana. "It's Peter!"

"My gracious!" exclaimed Daisy's astonished voice. She sprang to Georgiana's side as Peter sat up. "I was asleep—still," he said blinking and yawning.

"Did you hear what we were saying?" demanded Daisy. "And why are you out here, Peter? Why aren't you working with Mr. Morningstar and Abe?"

"I got it so bad in my head, I ast the boss to leave me have off this after. I had the headache, now, something wonderful. But," he added, rising, "I sleep it off. I'm some better."

He noticed that Georgiana's eyes were upon the book he held. "I'm goin' home now," he announced, taking a step away and checking himself in the act of lifting his hand to his old straw farm hat. "It is getting a little late, we will go, too," said Georgiana, and Daisy followed her as she moved around the logs to the path where Peter stood. "I got to hurry," said Peter, edging off. "You couldn't walk so fast."

"It won't be good for your headache to hurry, Peter," admonished Daisy, keeping at his side. "What is the book you have?"

Peter gave himself up to the inevitable and walked with them down the hill.

"This here?" he said, holding up a volume labeled "Vedanta Philosophy—Raja Yoga—And Other Lectures by Swami Vivekananda."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed Daisy. "wouldn't that rattle your slats? What is it?"

"I'll never tell you. Want to read it?" "I don't wonder you want to get rid of it. But don't offer it to me! Gracious, what do you take me for, Peter? Miss Ellery might like it."

"Where did you get it, Peter?" Georgiana asked, looking astonished. "Och," he answered disparagingly, "I borrowed the loan of it off of teacher, but there's too many big words in it."

He found that his disguise was giving him an assurance which he had never before felt in the presence of a girl. To be walking and talking with two young ladies without his customary sense of constraint was indeed a novel experience—and with a highly agreeable one.

"Teacher?" questioned Georgiana. "The district school teacher? But it is vacation now."

"She boarded at our place and let 'em there over the summer," said Peter, developing a talent for fiction which, if properly utilized, he felt might make his fame.

"How much of it have you read?" asked Georgiana, looking at him kindly. "Och, I went to sleep the first couple pages 'ready."

"That may be because of your headache," she said encouragingly. She longed to discover a diamond in the rough in Peter.

"I will lend you this," said Daisy patronizingly, holding up the book she carried. "My uncle thought it would be good mental discipline for me to read it, but—well, I haven't finished it, but no matter. Keep it as long as you like, Peter. I won't be selfish."

Peter received the book and read the title laboriously, like a small boy spelling out his words, "Some Facts About the Great Back-Boned Family." "What fur a family's that?" he asked.

"Don't ask me. Read it yourself." He handed it back to her. "Gimme an interestin' story and I'll read it."

"Peter," Daisy gravely admonished him, "have you no ambition to improve your mind?"

"I know enough to get along. What's the use of botherin' your mind with more'n that?"

Daisy sighed with undisguised sympathy.

AMUSEMENTS

At the Vaudeville tonight, "The Farmer's Daughter," is a very pleasing story of an artist who falls in love with a pretty country girl and induces her to go with him to the city where, in a short time he leaves her on the sick bed. The girl writes to her father who comes to her aid and takes her back home. "A Home to Let" is a comic picture and will cause a hearty laugh. This program should be seen tonight. The first show is at 7:00 o'clock.

"The Yankee Doodle Boy," one of the best shows to hit here for some time, will be the attraction at the Grand tonight. Ten big song hits and plenty of good wholesome comedy makes up the performance. Seats on sale at Hargrove & Mullins.

Grand Jury Will Investigate.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 28.—Judge Van Fleet of the superior court has called the grand jury for Monday to investigate the death of Edward Westfall, for which his employer, James Overlease, a drayman, is held on affidavit by Prosecutor Darling. The authorities admit they have not strong evidence against Overlease, but it is known the men had quarreled several times about Overlease's alleged attentions to Mrs. Westfall, who had applied for divorce.

Swindler Makes a "Killing."

Paris, Feb. 28.—The Paris police are investigating a most ingenious bank swindle. An individual in New York obtained a letter of credit from a large banking house there and made excellent duplicates by means of photographs, which he forwarded to accomplices in London, Paris, Rome, Vienna, Marseilles, Genoa, Hamburg and Munich, who cashed them simultaneously, getting $100,000.

To Continue Investigation.

Columbus, O., Feb. 28.—The Republicans of the house voted to sustain Speaker Eagleson's appointments on the joint committee to continue the investigation of Cincinnati municipal affairs by defeating the Espy senate resolution rescinding the resolution providing for the appointment of the committee.

Grip Germs From Mars?

Interpolated in his predictions for February, John C. Kusby, a weather prophet of Independence, Ia., advances a theory to explain the presence of the grip germ. The native habitat of the germ, he says, is the planet Mars, which is now very near to the earth, and the germs have leaped through the intervening space. He believes that Mars is inhabited by human beings like ourselves, who, he would infer, have suffered recurrent attacks of the prevailing malady for years.

Ordinance No. 188

AN ORDINANCE to amend Section No. 1 of the ordinance passed by the Common Council of Rushville, Indiana, on the 25th day of August, 1892, and Section One of the ordinance passed by the Common Council of the City of Rushville, Indiana, on the 22d day of March, 1895, to read as follows:

Be it enacted by the Common Council of the City of Rushville, Indiana, that Section One of Ordinance No. 35, of the ordinance passed by the Common Council of the City of Rushville, Indiana, said ordinance having been passed on the 25th day of August, 1892, and being recorded on page 89 of ordinance record No. 31, and also Section one, Ordinance No. 39, of the ordinance passed by the Common Council of said City of Rushville, Indiana, said ordinance having been passed on the 22d day of March, 1895, and being recorded on page 98 of ordinance record No. 1, and both of said Sections one of said ordinances are amended to read as follows:

Be it ordained by the Common Council of the City of Rushville, Indiana, that the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Indianapolis Railway Company be and the same is hereby required to place and maintain a flagman on Main Street and Perkins Street, of Rushville, Indiana, where the main track of said Company intersects and crosses said streets, within ten days from the taking effect of this ordinance.

Said flagman shall be over the age of twenty-one years and shall attend said crossing each day between the hours of seven-thirty o'clock a. m. and six-thirty o'clock p. m. Said watchman shall warn all persons approaching the tracks of said Company on each street at said crossing of approach of trains or cars or engines.

SECTION 2. So much of said ordinance No. 35 and 39 as are in conflict with this ordinance is hereby repealed.

SECTION 3. This amended ordinance shall be in full force and effect from its passage and publication as required by law.

Witness my hand and the seal of said City, this 19th day of February, 1908.

JEROME A FAILURE

This Is the Formal Charge Brought Against Famous Prosecutor.

FAILURE TO PROSECUTE

Traction Cases After He Had Been Elected on Promise to Do So Is Alleged in Complaint.

Metropolitan's Minority Stockholders Ask Governor Hughes to Remove District Attorney.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28.—The removal of William Travers Jerome from the office of district attorney of New York county is asked by William F. King, chairman of the committee of the minority stockholders in the Metropolitan Street Railway company, who filed with Governor Hughes a printed brief of charges comprising forty-eight pages. The request for removal is based on Jerome's alleged failure to prosecute the traction cases after he had been elected on his promise to do so.

King, in directing his charges said: "I maintain that much of the blame for the present deplorable condition of financial affairs is due to the failure of Jerome as district attorney to prosecute the rich and influential grafters who have robbed our people and disgraced the name of our city, commencing with the ice trust, the infamous clique who filched the money of the policy holders from the great insurance companies, and the last in the list but first in open audacity, the men who looted and wrecked the Metropolitan Traction company."

The petition also charges that contributions to the campaign fund to elect Mr. Jerome were received by one of Mr. Jerome's assistants from men connected with large corporations seeking favors from the district attorney, and that the sum, the amount of which is unknown, was upward of $50,000. Among these contributors, it is alleged, was the attorney for James H. Hyde, who contributed $5,000. It is also alleged that the assistant who received these funds and who has since resigned and entered law practice, has undue influence with the district attorney.

Governor Hughes said that the charges against District Attorney Jerome would take the usual course. A copy of them will be sent to Mr. Jerome, so that he may send an answer to them to the governor, after which the governor will decide as to his course.

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER

As Usual He Got the Worst of It In Street Shooting.

Cincinnati, Feb. 28.—Moses Kahn, a clothier, was slightly injured, James Jones of Covington, Ky., was mortally wounded, and Frank Yarbarrow, aged twenty-two years, is under arrest as the result of a bold attempt to rob Kahn. Yarbarrow assaulted Kahn in his store at Seventh and Vine streets, but Kahn fired on him and gave chase. Two patrolmen and nearly a thousand pedestrians joined in the chase and the man was captured, but not before Jones, a boss carpenter, near whom Yarbarrow ran, was hit in the back by a bullet from Patrolman Harbold's revolver. Yarbarrow told the police he was hungry and wanted to steal a suit of clothes to pawn.

Made No Comment.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The president has denied pardons in the case of P. D. Latham, M. J. Plunkett, Jos. Shannon, William Cutts, and A. J. Edwards, members of a labor union convicted some months ago of violation of an injunction issued by a United States court judge enjoining them and others from interfering with the operation and business of the Rocky Mountain Telephone company at Butte, Mont. The penalties imposed were from three to four months' imprisonment, and in some cases small fines. The president in denying the application for pardon makes no comment.

Convicted by Court Martial.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28.—A military court, sitting in the fortress of SS. Peter and Paul, condemned to death seven of the terrorists charged with complicity in the attempt last week in this city upon the lives of Grand Duke Nicholas and M. Chicheglovitch, the minister of justice, and sentenced three others to fifteen years' imprisonment at hard labor. Two women are among those sentenced to death.

A DRAMATIC SCENE

Indian Senators Face Each Other In Attitudes of Belligerency.

RICH, RED BLOOD SURGES

Owen, a Cherokee, and Curtis, a Kaw, Lock Horns on Floor of United States Senate.

Mr. Owen Boldly Re-enters Statement That He Is Under Control of the Interior.

Washington, Feb. 28.—One of the most dramatic scenes ever witnessed in the senate was enacted when Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma insisted in tragic tones and with face showing much emotion, that the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians were dead and that he, as a member of the tribe of Cherokee Indians, was not under the control of the secretary of the interior. The event was rendered all the more interesting by the fact that Mr. Owen was sharply engaged in controversy by Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, himself a Kaw Indian. It was the first time that two men with Indian blood in their veins had ever locked horns as senators in the senate chamber. The controversy arose in connection with the consideration of the Indian bill, and was precipitated by an effort on the part of Mr. Owen to have that bill so amended as to recognize the citizenship of the Five Civilized Tribes of Indians by putting the word "late" before this designation and calling them "The Late Five Civilized Tribes."

Mr. Curtis sought to interrupt Mr. Owen before the Oklahoma senator had concluded his first sentence.

"But," interposed the Kansan, "your property is under the control of the secretary of the interior, and you know it."

"I do not," retorted Mr. Owen.

Mr. Curtis insisted upon his views of the status of the Oklahoma senator. He did not contend that the property of the senator from Oklahoma aside from that owned as a member of the Cherokee tribe of Indians was under the secretary, but his tribal property was. "I think you ought not to be under control of the secretary, but you are," he said. "I agree," quickly replied Mr. Owen, "with the senator from Kansas, that I ought not to be. I disagree with him that I am."

The dramatic tone of the Oklahoma senator rather startled the chamber and people in the galleries leaned forward to see the participants of the wordy battle. Senator Owen left his place in the rear of the chamber and advanced to the central aisle, where he was within sight of everyone.

The two senators of Indian blood now were facing each other, twenty feet apart. Both appeared to have lost sight of parliamentary rules and were carrying on a personal colloquy.

Mr. Owen proceeded to say the supreme court of the United States had declared that Indians holding allotted lands are citizens of the United States. Rising to his full height, his olive-colored face showing that his pride had been pricked by the suggestion that he was under the control of the secretary of the interior, and with tone most tragic, Senator Owen continued: "The Cherokee nation can demand no allegiance from me. I owe them no allegiance. The only allegiance I owe is to my government, the United States, and to the state of Oklahoma. I say the supreme court has passed upon this matter, and I shall insist that it is right that the word 'late' shall be included in that amendment."

Mr. Curtis then took the floor and began by saying he had merely desired to interrupt the Oklahoma senator so that he might be able to make a correct statement to the senate. "When you made that statement about the Delawares being absorbed by the Cherokee tribe, of which you are a member, you should have told how they were swallowed up by the Cherokees," he exclaimed, pointing his index finger at his antagonist.

Mr. Owen insisted that a man belonging to an Indian tribe is a subordinate or ward and an alien, which he said was not compatible with American citizenship. "Am I an alien?" he exclaimed.

Senator Carter came to the rescue and attempted to show that both senators were right. He said he did not wonder that the Oklahoma senator resented the idea that he was under the control of the secretary of the interior. His remarks brought the senate into a better humor, and laughter displaced the strained state of mind that had prevailed.

Senator Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, added to the relaxed tension by making a suggestion for a way out of the difficulty. "It would be well for the senate to recognize the belligerent rights of these Indians," he said. Both sides joined in the laughter that filled the chamber. Later Senator Owen went over to the Republican side and, approaching Senator Curtis in a friendly manner, took a seat by his side. The two laughed good-naturedly and appeared to be continuing the discussion so heatedly begun on the floor. Mr. Owen later made a comprehensive argument with many references to court decisions to uphold the position he had taken. His contention was that his tribal property was at his disposal and he could give it away or do with it as he pleased.

After further debate Mr. Owen's proposition to designate the Indians as the "Late Five Civilized Tribes" was voted down, Mr. Owen's being the only vote in its support.

HOUSE GETS REVENGE

All-Powerful Committee Driven From Luxurious Quarters.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The all-powerful committee on ways and means of the house of representatives was put to rout and by an overwhelming vote ordered out of the capitol to the new house office building, a block away. Various members of the committee led by Messrs. Payne and Dazell strenuously objected to the removal, but they had only a weak following, and their protests availed them nothing. The committee's present rooms are desired in order that the speaker may have more commodious quarters.

The army appropriation bill was discussed at length and the provision for pay of non-commissioned officers and privates was finally stricken out. Representative Lilly introduced a series of resolutions calling upon the secretary of the navy for all information in his possession concerning submarine boats. The Indian appropriation bill was under consideration in the senate.

SHOCKING CAREER OF CRIME

Russian Monk Under Guise of Holiness Lures Women to Death.

Verkhoturys, Perm, Russia, Feb. 28.—The circuit court here has meted out partial justice to a monk named Feodotoff, whose criminal life was revealed last fall, by sentencing him to penal servitude for fifteen years. Feodotoff came to Verkhoturys about two years ago and set up a shrine in a neighboring forest, where he lived as a hermit. He had a great reputation for marvelous cures, and his little chapel in the solitude of the woods became the objective point for pilgrimages from all parts of the province of Perm. The repeated disappearance of female pilgrims who visited the monk's chapel finally attracted the attention of the authorities, and an investigation disclosed the bodies of no less than twenty victims, whom Feodotoff had assaulted and murdered and then buried in the cellar of his house.

To Extend the Inquiry.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A general discussion among members of the senate committee on naval affairs indicated that the investigation of charges of defects in battleship construction will be extended to a number of other questions that have received public attention. Among these questions will be that of whether staff officers, such as naval surgeons, shall be given command of hospital ships or other naval vessels. This undoubtedly will result in an airing of the controversy between Rear Admiral Brownson and Surgeon General Rixey, which was disposed of by the president supporting the latter in his contention that a surgeon should be given the command of the hospital ship Relief.

Parisians Are Interested.

Paris, Feb. 28.—The Roy case is attracting much attention in the French press and there is much public sympathy for Roy's father, who is one of the most prominent dealers in blooded horses in Paris. Detective Goron and members of Roy's family are contesting every damaging statement telegraphed to Paris from America. They insist that the killing was a legitimate act of self-defense. The family plainly seeks to represent that Roy was the victim of Miss Calla's wiles, stress being laid upon the family's efforts to break off his relations with her.

CAMPAIGN YEAR

AND

THE YEAR 1908 WILL MAKE GREAT HISTORY

Probably no year since the Civil War has as great influence upon the United States as the coming year. The Presidential contest, both for nomination and election, involves much more than mere party rivalry. It involves the approval or rejection of the great economic reforms which mark the beginning of a new epoch in American history. It is a fight affecting every man, woman and child, and upon which the interest of the whole world is focused.

BEES LAXATIVE COUGH SYRUP

CONFORMS TO NATIONAL PURE FOOD AND DRUGS LAW.
An improvement over many Cough, Lung and Bronchial Remedies, because it rids the system of a cold by acting as a cathartic on the bowels. No opiates. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded. Prepared by PINEULE MEDICINE CO., CHICAGO, U. S. A.

For Sale by LYLE'S DRUG STORE.

If You Get a Wireless From Your Tooth

Remember Nyal's Toothache Plugs stop toothache instantly, also obviate it by filling the cavities, excluding food, etc., which accumulates, decomposes, forms an acid and facilitates decay. They temporarily FILL and PRESERVE the teeth prior to the insertion of permanent fillings. Can be inserted with toothpick and removed when desired, but unlike so-called toothache gums and waxes, they do not melt, come out, mix with the food and upset stomach. Superior as a toothache remedy—no burn, no blister.

Donald Meyers, of Arthur street, is recovering from a severe bilious attack.

There will be an oyster supper and social at the Milroy high school this evening.

James Sage, of Milroy, entered a school of pharmacy at Indianapolis this week.

The sermon at the First Presbyterian church last night is pronounced the best of any since the revival started.

Inadvertently a number of society items were omitted from the columns of the Daily Republican Thursday evening.

The last number of the Milroy lecture course will be given March 7th by Rufus Everson King, a prominent lecturer of New York City.

Mrs. Bruce Matlock, Miss Florence Matlock and Mrs. Maxie M. Bates spent yesterday with Mrs. A. N. Newbold, and family south of town.

The O. W. B. M. of Ben Davis Creek church will hold an exchange in the G. P. McCarty room in West Third street on Thursday, March 12th.

Quite a few delegates have agreed to be in this city tomorrow from the remote parts of the county that they might meet the candidates and save them many hard drives.

Albert Miller, formerly postoffice clerk, and who recently resigned to accept a position with a grocery firm in Indianapolis, is moving his household goods and family to that city.

The local high school team will go to Richmond tonight accompanied by Prof. M. R. McDaniels and Hugh Maury. The local team is in good shape and hopes of great victory are entertained.

The funeral services of Joseph Holman, who died suddenly at his home in Noble township, Thursday morning, will be held at the Methodist Protestant church Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The remains will be taken to East Hill cemetery for burial.

John W. Nation, ex-county treasurer of Decatur county, fell dead in his chair Thursday morning at his home near Sandusky. Mr. Nation has just returned from a business trip at Indianapolis on Wednesday and was in usual health.

Kidney Troubles May be Sapping Your Life Away, Rushville People Have Learned This Fact

When a healthy man, or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Rushville testimony to prove it.

Mrs. S. E. Kenner, 826 N. Sexton Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was a sufferer from backache and kidney trouble. There was a dull, aching across my hips which robbed me of my vigor. I felt tired and worn out mornings with little ambition to attend to my household duties. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and as they were highly recommended, I procured a box of F. B. Johnson & Company's drug store. They did wonders for me and in a short time I felt like a different woman. I intend to continue using Doan's Kidney Pills until every trace of kidney trouble has disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Secret of Knowing How to Make Good Extracts

Lemon
and Vanilla

The process thru which our extracts are made, is a secret to a great many people, because they buy any old thing and never stop to think as to how it is made.

Take our VANILLA Extract which we made from the bean, which we buy for our own use. This extract goes thru a process of careful handling which takes one year. When it is finished it is a perfect extract of Vanilla.

Our Vanilla is 100 an ounce, Lemon 50.
